FOREWORD

The perfect trip to Sri Lanka cannot be boxed into a definition. Across its length and breadth, the island hosts myriad experiences that take different forms along its golden coastline, wild jungles, and glittering cities. The country's tourism has also evolved in such leaps and bounds over the past couple of years that every visit reveals a new lens on the destination. For many of us, Sri Lanka has been a familiar neighbour—close enough to be accessible, yet distinct in the escape it offers. Indians have led the pack of explorers as the largest tourist group arriving into the country this year, and if you end up being one of them, there's a range of novelty waiting for you.

While a crop of new hotels take stage in the region, heritage properties are getting makeovers that preserve timeless stories in a fast changing world. And a growing focus on wellness and wildlife is adding new layers to Sri Lanka's famed coastal charm. Multigenerational getaways are on the rise amid a family travel boom, and on such trips, these experiences are creating an opportunity to interact and connect with the place, with oneself, and with each other.

Locals and experts are taking travellers on curated journeys to explore all of this more consciously. Personalised to a tee, such itineraries are making it possible to witness Sri Lankan culture up close, but at your pace. In an upward arc representing the rise of bespoke travel, Sri Lanka is coming out at the top. There are more ways than ever to explore the island's diverse beauty—be it by covering the best of history, culture, wellness, and food in one kaleidoscope of a trip, or by expanding into one moment of inspiration that calls out to you. The perfect trip to Sri Lanka cannot be boxed, for the island can give you exactly what you desire, with offerings that continue to evolve at lightning speed.

There is no better time to zoom in on what makes the destination so magnetic. This supplement is an invitation to discover this evolving story of Sri Lanka—one of heritage, hospitality, and the timeless joy of discovery.

BY THE SOUTHERN WATERS

Embrace the gentle soul of Weligama at The Six, a curation of six villas by the water inspired by coastal living. Gather and give in to the slow life with the best of wellness, dining and beachside beauty

Along Sri Lanka's southern coast, where the land melts into the Indian Ocean, The Six Weligama stands as a sanctuary for slowing down. Since its debut in 2024, this enclave of six villas has become a beacon of beachside privacy for discerning travellers, offering a stay that is both deeply personal and indulgent.

Each villa at The Six Weligama is a world unto itself, inspired by a different shoreline from across the world, be it Bali's Amed for its sunlit ease or Greece's Kyra for its timeless romance. Yet all are bound by their nod to natural beauty: sprawling living spaces open directly onto golden sands, bedrooms are hugged by the salty sea breeze, private pools shimmer under the sun, and saunas offer sanctuary after long days of exploration. For families and friends, the Bari and Cies villas build on this experience with game rooms, larger pools, and endless space to gather.

Dining at The Six is more than sustenance—it is an immersion. Mornings here are marked by a floating breakfast, with trays of fresh fruit and coffee drifting across a turquoise pool. As the sun sets, flames rise from the beachside grill while guests circle a bonfire. Their signature dishes are plated as works of art, marrying global sophistication with the untamed soul of the island. A mobile bar ensures that every hour has its own mood, its own story, whether by way of a sunset cocktail by the shore or a glass of wine to be savoured in solitude.

It's natural to crave rejuvenation by the lapping waves of water, and the wellness focus at this beach destination offers exactly that. Here, relaxation is whispered rather than announced, as evident in the touch of warm stones, the scent of coconut oil, and the harmony of two therapists working in tandem. Yoga by the sea, meditation at dawn, and saunas in every villa create moments where body, spirit, and the surrounding landscape unite as one.

In all this, service at The Six flows like the tide—ever present, never obtrusive, and gently tying the picture together. Private butlers, chefs, and mixologists anticipate desires before they are spoken, while the team curates experiences that reveal Sri Lanka's magic: imagine watching whales make an appearance out at the ocean, following turtles as they return to shore, walking through cinnamon groves, and soaking in the timeless echoes of Galle Fort's history.

SIPS AND SECRETS

There's a new buzz in Colombo, and it's coming from behind a discreet doorway on Kopannya Veediya. Kampong, named after the Malay word for 'village', is Colombo's newest cocktail bar. Part neighbourhood story, part sensory time machine, it leans into the city's forgotten past, when the neighbourhood was a cultural crossroads of traders and sailors. Head bartender Nelaka Dayawansa, the self-taught talent behind Gini's cult cocktails, leads a drinks programme that's both nostalgic and avant-garde. Expect bold, local infusions that pay homage to sights in the neighborhood, alongside a variety of small plates. The food menu riffs on comfort classics, turning them into elegant small plates that feel familiar but surprise with every bite. The design keeps things grounded, anchored by a low bar that invites you to lean in, watch, and chat with the mixologists as they work their magic. Kampong isn't just another bar—it's a conversation with Colombo itself. Every pour carries a secret from the island's past, every sip feels like discovering something you didn't know you'd missed.

A NEW ADVENTURE

Experience Colombo in a whole new way at Cinnamon Life at City of Dreams Sri Lanka, an ambitious new address with panoramic views, eclectic dining, and a world class casino

Colombo has long been a city of contrasts. Old world streets meet glass-fronted towers here, while tranquil lakes rest against the hum of markets. Rising from the heart of this dichotomy is Cinnamon Life at City of Dreams Sri Lanka, a bold new landmark that reimagines the city as an urban playground for travellers who want it all without having to choose: culture in the lap of luxury and entertainment with ease.

Arriving at Cinnamon Life at City of Dreams Sri Lanka is seamless. From the airport, guests are welcomed into the city in less than an hour, with private transfers arranged in a fleet of luxe cars and electric vehicles. Inside, the scale impresses.

The hotel's public art collection, created by leading Sri Lankan artists, weaves the country's history, diversity, and landscapes into every corner and corridor.

With 687 rooms and suites, the hotel has attracted international attention for its superlative scale, offering a panorama of choice with a butler service that marries stay with service. Its ocean-facing suites frame the Indian Ocean at sunrise, while skyline rooms reveal the pulse of Colombo after dark.

At an address of this size, experiences unfurl across various levels and moods. At Dreams & Beats, the infinity pool seems to stretch into the horizon. At Kurundu, wellness therapies inspired by the five elements offer restoration, while the fitness studio energises body and mind. Dining becomes a journey around the world: Cantonese artistry at Sapphire Dragon, Mediterranean seafood at Bistro des Marées, refined Japanese flavours at Yoroko, fragrant Indian classics at Indiya, and indulgent grills at Staten Bar. Sweet Lab, with its desserts and coffee, provides the perfect punctuation.

Evenings spill effortlessly into Colombo's social scene without ever leaving the property. Gatz shifts from afternoon tea to a lively night bar, Flux pours cocktails under sunset skies, and Cloud Wine, guided by an international sommelier, curates rare vintages in intimate style.

What anchors all this is a sense of place, expressed through a lens on the region's art scene. The hotel's public art collection, created by leading Sri Lankan artists, weaves the country's history, diversity, and landscapes into every corner and corridor. Outside, Beira Lake glimmers, pelicans in flight reminding guests that even in the city, serenity is never far.

No wonder that for families, business travellers, or those chasing the thrill of its world-class casino, Cinnamon Life is more than a hotel. It is Colombo's hottest new address where every experience feels like a celebration.

BACK IN TIME

Reimagined as iconic hotels, these heritage properties are keepers of the island's storied past

CEYLON TEA TRAILS, HATTON

Set across five tea planters' bungalows, Ceylon Tea Trails once housed British estate managers. Under the Fernando family of tea company Dilmah, the bungalows went through a restoration led by designer Deirdre Renniers and later refined by Cécile Domain. Original rooms, verandas, gardens, and fireplaces remained, while with new pools, jacuzzis, and world class hospitality, Tea Trails soon became the first Relais & Châteaux property in Sri Lanka. Doubles from approx. ₹1,08,000; resplendentceylon.com

Owner's Cottage at Dunkeld Bungalow, Ceylon Tea Trails

GALLE FORT HOTEL, GALLE

Look closely, and you will see this hotel's story as a Dutch merchant's home. Crushed coral, shells, and stone hide beneath its plastered walls, while the Palladian archway built for his daughter's wedding still greets visitors. As the new custodian, Karl Steinberg preserved and restored this structure with architect Channa Daswatte, reopening it as Galle Fort Hotel in 2004. Today, the hotel is writing its own story with Sri Lanka's first arrack specialty bar, Ropewalk. Doubles from approx. ₹45,000; galleforhotel.com

PARADISE ROAD TINTAGEL COLOMBO

This grand residence was built in 1930 by Lucien De Zilwa, and later produced three Prime Ministers and Sri Lanka's first female President as home to the Bandaranaike family. In 2005, design visionary Udayshanth Fernando transformed it into a 10-key boutique hotel with eclectic interiors: European chandeliers, Chinese antiques, and Sri Lankan contemporary art. A pool, courtyard fountain, and the Red Bar add modern flair to this picture without erasing its heritage. Doubles from approx. ₹31,000; paradiseroadhotels.com

GALLE FACE HOTEL, COLOMBO

This site was originally a Dutch villa in the 18th century, turned into a hotel in 1864, and continued to expand through the next three decades. Restored in the 2010s, it today preserves the 19th-century luxury of scale by way of colonial façades, high ceilings, and verandahs. While the rooms have been reimaged in a contemporary style, it

sustains its legacy as Sri Lanka's most storied seafront hotel. Doubles from approx. ₹16,000; gallefacehotel.com

THOTALAGALA, HAPUTALE

Built in 1870 as an estate manager's residence, Thotalagala was once a part of Dambattenne, one of the five estates bought by Sir Thomas Lipton. The bungalow was later reimaged as a retreat with each of the seven rooms named after a figure who shaped Sri Lanka's history. The gardens were redesigned by botanist Sam Popham, and remain untouched along with the rest of the structure. Doubles from approx. ₹89,000; thotalagala.com

KAHANDA KANDA, GALLE

It was love at first sight for George Cooper. Just outside Galle in 1999, the interior designer stumbled upon a 10-acre hilltop estate overlooking Koggala Lake, which later became his holiday home. It now stands as a boutique hotel featuring 12 villas. Minimal boundaries, plunge pools, and outdoor showers blur the lines between indoors and outdoors, leaving guests to witness Sri Lanka's stunning wildlife up close. Doubles from approx. ₹45,000; kkcollection.com

AMANGALLA, GALLE

Dating back to 1684, Amangalla began as a pair of Dutch houses before serving as a British garrison. Transformed into the New Oriental Hotel in 1865 and reborn under Aman in 2004, it retains an old world elegance in its teak floors, high ceilings, and arched windows. A spa, a pool, and the Garden House spell out the signature Aman experience, which builds on the property's location within the historic Galle

Fort. Doubles from approx. ₹89,000; aman.com

LUNUGANGA, BENTOTA

After serving as a British cinnamon and rubber plantation, Lunuganga was transformed by Geoffrey Bawa into an arcadian estate and garden. This estate stands as is even today, overseen by The Bawa Trust with the hotel being managed by Teardrop Hotels. Among the few new additions made by the trust is the Master Suite, which was once occupied by Geoffrey Bawa himself and had previously remained off limits for guests. Doubles from approx. ₹57,000; teardrop-hotels.com

JETWING MAHESA BHAWAN, JAFFNA

The dream home of Richard and Maheswari Cooke has carried their legacy through decades of conflict and disarray. After changing several hands over eight decades, the two-storey villa was bought by the owners of Jetwing Hotels and resorted by architect Lilani Jayaweera. Now Jaffna's first boutique hotel, it retains the stately façade and warmth of a lived home with four heritage rooms and a new pool. Doubles from approx. ₹20,000; jetwinghotels.com

FORT BAZAAR, GALLE

The sleek interiors of Fort Bazaar belie its origin story. When Teardrop Hotels took over the building in 2006, the plan was to retain its historic proportions and identity while adding details that suited the new-age traveller. Now, the former merchant's home hosts travellers in rooms with modern amenities and contemporary interiors—think custom furnishings and sleek materials. Doubles from approx. ₹53,000; teardrop-hotels.com

FROM SURF TO SAFARI

Discover Sri Lanka in all its diversity at properties by Thema Collection, each rooted in the land they stand on and the culture they celebrate of the planter era, with butlers tending to guests in heritage suites overlooking tea fields and manicured gardens. The heritage architecture adds to the charm, with stately suites and alfresco spaces. In Mandaram Nuwara, a century-old tea factory now stands reimagined as the Tea & Experience Factory with its farm to cup experience.

Threading these experiences together is a deep commitment to sustainability and conscious hospitality. Thema Collection supports local communities, champions women in hospitality, and leads conservation initiatives from turtle protection to biodiversity research. Certified by global nonprofit Green Destinations, its properties honour both environment and heritage while offering guests refined comfort.

For travellers, each stay in the collection is not just accommodation but immersion—whether in the cadence of the sea, the quiet of the hills, or the call of the wild. With Thema Collection, luxury is found in the way every place tells its own story, and invites you to become part of it.

Amid the golden south coast, tea-clad highlands, and the island's many national parks, Thema Collection curates stays that feel less like hotels and more like stories of the land. Fourteen properties carry this narrative, each shaped by its setting as well as the community that thrives in it. Together, they form a portfolio where individuality is the greatest luxury.

On the southern coast, the rhythm of the sea shapes life at Mirissa's Vis Ta Vie and Parangi Weligama Bay. Parangi sits on a lively sweep of Weligama Bay as a favourite among surfers and families, while Vis Ta Vie is tucked into a quieter cove for ocean views and slower days. Both celebrate the south's abundance with seafood feasts, butler service, and Ayurvedic spa rituals practiced against the gush of waves.

In the wild heart of the island, Waraka Udawalawe rises from a jackfruit garden featuring contemporary design as well as a culinary journey built around the humble fruit. Wild Glamping Gal Oya takes a different path. Consciously crafted with the support of the Veddah community, its open verandas and naturalist-led safaris immerse guests in one of Sri Lanka's most untouched national parks.

The hills tell yet another story, thanks to Scottish Planter Bungalow Glendevon in Nuwara Eliya and Mountbatten Bungalow in Kandy. They both preserve the romance

AN ITALIAN TRYST

Experience the romance of Italian fine dining come alive on the streets of Sri Lanka. At Aqua Forte and Aqua Pazza, a culinary adventure awaits with housemade delicacies and choice wines

Amid Sri Lanka's kaleidoscope of local flavours converging with global influences, the Aqua Family has carved out a space for authentic Italian dining. Well heeled locals and tourists alike seek out comforting flavours at its two spectacular restaurants—Aqua Forte in Galle Fort and Aqua Pazza in Colombo—looking to savour European culinary artistry that, for a moment, open doors to the flip side of Sri Lanka as you know it.

A STORIED SETTING

A neoclassical Dutch mansion in the heart of Galle Fort houses Aqua Forte, its heritage bones reimagined into a space of understated elegance. Linen-draped tables, Italian glassware, and copper accents create an atmosphere that is intimate yet sophisticated. Etchings by Italian artist Walter Valentini complete this picture, giving the restaurant a gallery-like atmosphere that sets the stage for food recognised by The World's 50 Best Discovery. Executive Chef Roberto Vicario draws inspiration from every corner of Italy for his menu, balancing tradition with modern technique. Handmade pastas, freshly baked breads, and authentic flavours make dining here feel like a journey through Italy—perfect for those looking to switch things up between heaps of local curry rice. Everything is made fresh to order, down to each loaf of bread. Complementing the food is the island's most extensive Italian wine list, personally curated by the owners.

CONTEMPORARY DINING

The gentle experience in Galle is contrasted by a bold, modernist restaurant set in the lively Park Street Mews of Colombo. Aqua Pazza is unapologetic in its interiors, inspired by the design languages of Milan and Madrid. Here, sleek furniture, abstract art, and a play of soft lighting sets off a flood of warmth in the air. The menu is a thoughtful blend of Italian and Spanish influences: house-made pastas and breads meet regionally inspired tapas, all crafted with a balance of imported delicacies and the best of local produce. Whether it's a quiet business lunch, a romantic dinner, or an evening of wine and small plates, the eclectic match of ambience with food caters to everyone without ever compromising on quality. The wine list here is equally ambitious, with one of the most extensive by-the-glass selections in the country designed to make exploration approachable and enjoyable. With a range of sumptuous desserts to wind up the fare, it's easy to stretch dinners to leisurely evenings of indulgence. At both restaurants, private dining rooms allow for intimate celebrations, while customised menus for groups highlight the team's versatility.

Dishes such as the Galle Biryani carry stories of the region's past, having been created by settlers and traders over the years. Others, like the ambul thiyal pizza and tangy eggplant pickle, offer a new take on traditional Sri Lankan preparations.

DINING IN THE WILD WILD COAST TENTED LODGE

A JOURNEY FROM INDIA ITC RATNADIPA, A LUXURY COLLECTION HOTEL

A WILD LIFE

From watching the world's largest elephant gathering to caring for turtles by the waves, there are more ways than one to get familiar with the life that thrives on the island

GATHERING IN MINNERIYA

Every year between July and October, Minneriya National Park hosts the largest gathering of Asian elephants in the world as a stop on the island's elephant corridor. As the waters of the ancient Minneriya Tank recede, dense glades draw the gentle giants in by the hundreds. The best time to be there is late afternoon, when families shuffle in from the forest. Set base at the nearby Cinnamon Lodge Habarana amid 27 acres of forest, or opt for a more immersive experience at Mahoora Tented Camps.

TURTLE TRACKING

To develop a positive footprint, track turtles at one of the hatcheries on the island. Kosgodra's beach has been a vital nesting ground for endangered turtles for decades. Five species including the leatherback and hawksbill lay their eggs here, safeguarded by conservation projects that incubate and release thousands of hatchlings each season. Visitors can tour the hatchery, meet rescued adults, and watch them head into the surf. Perch at the lagoon-side boutique property of The Postcard Galle, and head out with them to the beach's care centre for firsthand experience of turtle care and conservation.

THE LEOPARDS OF YALA

With one of the highest leopard densities in the world, Yala National Park is easily Sri Lanka's big cat capital. Every morning, visitors fan out across its thorny outcrops looking out for leopards sprawled on boulders or padding lightly through the grass. Sloth bears, elephants, and over 200 bird species add to the spectacle. The dry months of May to July bring high leopard spotting and thin crowds. Stay at the sleek Hilton Yala Resort, the award-winning Wild Coast Tented Lodge with its cocoon-like suites, or the intimate Uga Chena Huts with its private plunge pools against untamed wilderness.

A WHALE TO SPOT

The southern waters off Mirissa are a passage for whales. From December to April, blue whales, sperm whales, and pods of spinner dolphins breach and dive within sight of the coast. It can get crowded around this time, though sustainable operators maintain a safe distance with half-day cruises into the deep. Further along the shore, Anantara Peace Haven Tangalle Resort makes for a comfortable base with cliffside villas and Ayurvedic treatments. Join them for an excursion to Mirissa at dawn, and depart in a traditional fishing trawler restored for leisure cruising.

BIRDERS' PARADISE

Sri Lanka is also home to a mesmerising repository of avian creatures. Head inland to the UNESCO-listed Sinharaja Forest Reserve, the country's last stretch of rainforest popularly known as a birdwatcher's paradise. It's home to 34 endemic species, from the Sri Lanka blue magpie to the red-faced malkoha. Early morning walks reveal flocks flitting through the canopy as antsy langurs swing overhead. The edge of the reserve features a few unassuming stays, but places like Martin's Lodge are well-frequented by birding enthusiasts and the eco-conscious The Rainforest Ecolodge offers direct access to dawn trails and the sounds of the jungle at night.

A COASTAL HIDEAWAY

Sri Lanka's premium beachside destination, Sol House Mirissa, comes kitted with two villas, private pools, and all the trappings of a coastal hideaway

What happens between these meals is set entirely to your whim. You can venture out to Mirissa's famed waters for whale watching, lose yourself in the markets of Galle, or return to the surf for a dance with the waves.

The first thing you notice at Sol House Mirissa is the sound—a gentle flush of waves breaking against golden sand, inspiring a restful pace that sets the tone for your entire stay. Here, life revolves around the ocean: its endless horizon, its shifting moods, its promise of escape.

The two three-bedroom villas are designed not as showpieces but as havens of this coastal lifestyle. The Ocean Breeze villa brings with it sun-soaked terraces, while Garden Bliss offers a leafy calm and rooftop views. Each alcove of private space comes with two pools and direct beach access. The sense of space coupled with the option of a buyout offers the perfect playground for multi-generational getaways, with something to do for everyone. Days at Sol House don't follow an itinerary so much as they shift with the tide. Mornings may begin barefoot on the beach, and sundowners enjoy coffee sipped by a pool that mirrors the sky.

Meals are crafted as milestones in these nature-kissed days. From a seafood grill under a pink sunset sky to a private alfresco dinner under flickering lanterns, each dining experience is a moment to pause and mingle with the surroundings. With a chef curating each plate to your personal taste, dining here feels less like service and more like ritual—intimate, unhurried, unforgettable.

What happens between these meals is set entirely to your whim. You can venture out to Mirissa's famed waters for whale watching, lose yourself in the markets of Galle, or return to the surf for a dance with the waves. For some, the greatest indulgence is never leaving at all: midnight dips in the pool, reading under the shade, or surrendering to a massage that carries the scent of coconut and sea breeze.

There is no script at Sol House Mirissa, only gentle suggestions. The rooftop terrace calls for starlit gatherings, a movie room inspires laidback nights, and the private pools blur boundaries between ocean and accommodation. Families, friends, couples—whichever you arrive with, the stay moulds to the shape of your story. Here, luxury is not just what you are offered, but how you become part of the beachside rhythm.

OPEN MIC NIGHTS

Every now and then, The Geoffrey Bawa Trust calls Colombo's literary crowds together for an open mic night of poetry. Set within The Bawa Space, Geoffrey Bawa's Colombo 07 residence, the sessions feature readings by established and emerging voices in English, Sinhala, and Tamil. Tickets are typically announced on their social media pages and can also be tracked on the website. The atmosphere is low-lit and intimate, more salon than stage. geoffreybawa.com

STREET FOOD UNDER THE LAMPPOST

If a day of exploration has worked up your appetite, head north to Abdul Hameed Street in Aluthkade. From 8pm in the evening, the street food affair in this popular night market goes on well past midnight, frequented as a favourite weekend haunt by locals and travellers alike. The market is lined with stalls selling delicacies like kotthu roti chopped on iron sheets and fiery oxtail soup. Best experienced with cash in hand, it remains one of the capital's most crowded alfresco food courts.

CYCLING THROUGH THE STREETS

To see, feel, and hear Colombo up close, cycle past the glittering streets on a relatively crowd-free route through the city. Several operators start off from Independence Square, with a group of riders decked in reflective gear and bicycles following the guide through Beira Lake, Pettah, Galle Face Green, and the Fort district. On tours that last from two to four hours, sample snack stops, test your fitness levels, and savour the outdoor atmosphere of the night. srilankainstyle.com

DIVING INTO LOCAL CULTURE

There's nothing like seeing a city through the eyes of a local. Dilshan and Adam of Soulful Sri Lanka spend evenings taking guests bar hopping across the most quirky watering holes around Colombo Fort. Not for the faint hearted, the Dodgy Bar Tour has everything: hidden haunts, finger food to break the spice scale, and conversations with like-minded enthusiasts over glasses of local alcohol. Having grown up in Colombo, the founders have ample stories to swap and won't mind sharing insights on the island's greatest experiences either. soulfulsri.lanka.com

SCREENINGS UNDER THE SKY

On select weekends, Café Ceylon transforms its courtyard into an outdoor cinema. Screenings usually begin at 7pm, with cult classics or indie films projected under the stars. The venue's laidback charm spills out under the open sky, with mattresses, local cocktails, and light snacks keeping company through the screening. cafeceylon.lk

Late Night Tipples

As the island evolves into a hub of world-class mixology, iconic bars in the capital see a buzzing nightlife and social culture take shape around local spirits and craft cocktails. Savour music nights at ColomBar, or head to Uncle's, a crowd favourite bar in the crowd favourite neighbourhood of Park Street. Rhythm And Blues claims the night with its atmospheric dance floor, coupled with occasional live jazz performances.
